

Mountains area and Island internship (Graduate School of Integrated Sciences for Life, Associate Professor)

As part of community contribution and student education, the “Hiroshima University Knowledge Base Project” has sent many students to mountainous areas and islands to promote cooperation and collaboration with local people.